

Approx 1 P for strength; 1 P for weakness

Question 2 (24 Points)

Marcus, a third grade student, reads aloud from a text while his teacher notes his oral reading performance on a separate copy of the text. Analyze the student's oral reading performance below and then respond to the questions that follow.

[Jack Robinson: Baseball's First Black Superstar]

On a chilly April afternoon in 1947, Jack ^{Rossvelt Rob ✓} ~~Roosevelt~~ ^{Rob ✓} Robinson stood at bat in ^{Ebbs} ~~Ebbets~~ Field in ^{Brookline} ~~Brooklyn~~, New York. The nation watched and held its breath. This was the first time in

^{organize} ~~organized~~ baseball that a black man took the field to play with and against white players. ^{plays} ~~played~~

Up until this time, if a black man wanted to play professional baseball, he played in the Negro ^{legs} ~~leagues~~. Jackie Robinson had played for the Kansas City ^{mons} ~~Monarchs~~, a Negro Leagues team. He ^{hates} ~~hated~~ the way blacks were treated.

[An End to Segregation]

Branch ^{Ricks} ~~Rickey~~, president and ^{genal} ~~general~~ manager of the ^{Brookline} ~~Brooklyn~~ Dodgers could see the ^{problems} ~~problem~~ black players ^{face} ~~faced~~. He wanted to help end ^{segregging} ~~segregation~~ in sports. In 1942, Rickey ^{starts} ~~started~~ looking for just the right person to break the color ^{barrie} ~~barrier~~. Rickey knew that they would make ^{his/his ✓} ~~his~~ history by ending ^{segregging} ~~segregation~~ of the baseball league together.

KEY:

- deletion
- | short pause
- ← repetition
- ⊙ self-correction
- ^ insertion
- || long pause
- cat/cow substitution
- sush/sushin multiple attempts at reading word
- ✓ after attempts at decoding part of the word, reads it correctly

Using your knowledge of word identification strategies (e.g. use of phonics, analysis of word structure, use of context clues, identification of sight words), write a response in which you:

- identify one strength and one weakness in the student's oral reading performance using evidence to support your response